

Day 7 golf, crafts, & splash contest

Our last full day of vacation came quicker than we wanted. The boys were out the door by 7:15am to play Atlantic Dunes golf course over in Sea Pines. Apparently, a course reconstructed/designed by Davis Love III. Jake shot 84 Drew shot an 89 and Brian shot a 90 and it sounded like they saw a lot of alligators and had bunches of fun. Boys both got head covers for souvenirs. Lucky boys!

The girls had plans to make it down to the beach by 9:30am so they could color beach bags at the kids activity station. We were right in time and got most of our normal camp set up. Way to go girls!! We had another great day playing in the ocean and sporadic rain. There was a glitter tattoo station set up poolside too that was quite popular. It was free-but they work on tips. The girls got some cute ones!! After a late afternoon shower we decided we should move our camp to the pool. That was a cold rain and we looked like drowned rats getting all of our stuff packed and up to the pool deck. It was pretty funny. We were determined to enjoy our last full day. The kids entered into the splash contest and made it into the finals but were edged out in the end. By the finals it was a steady cold rain! It cleared up and we enjoyed more time at the pool and Brian won a t-shirt from the air gun they shoot t-shirts out into the pool. The kids said he ran a lady over for it but I didn't actually see it.

After getting cleaned up we decided to go back to Harbour Town so I could see it in the daylight and get a sweatshirt. I found one that I liked for $20 so I grabbed it up. Then we headed back close to our hotel to the Shelter Cove shopping area for our dinner reservations at Poseidon. It's a pretty area that overlooks the water/marsh. We sat inside but it has a big outdoor bar area and a rooftop deck. Our dinner was very yummy -Brian and I have eaten so much seafood!! We toasted to our vacay 🍷 Thanks to Dad who works practically 24/7 so we can enjoy this time together. What a blast we've had!! On the way back, we hit Hilton head ice cream again! Blue Cookie monsters for the kids again and mint Oreo for me. It's really good ice cream!! But we ran out of time for another round of miniature golf. Darn it!
